HISTORY

THE RESTAURANT AND LOUNGE AT CRAIGENDARROCH HAVE BEEN NAMED AFTER THE KEILLER FAMILY, WHO BUILT THE ORIGINAL HOUSE HERE IN 1891.

The Keillers from Dundee famously grew their wealth from creating a chip marmalade business known as James Keiller and Sons which enjoyed unprecedented success and booming international trade. They became the first to export their product around the world, particularly to the British Empire, and used some of that wealth to build a holiday retreat here on the 'Hill of the Oaks' known in Gaelic as Craigendarroch.

The house was built as a grand residence and construction materials were of the finest quality. Instead of using the local granite, Keiller hired architects from Dundee who brought in red sandstone, transported by rail from the Pentland Hills near Edinburgh to Ballater station, and the stone had to be hauled up the hillside on carts.

Craigendarroch, which is now a holiday retreat for guests from all over the world, welcomes you to The Keiller Brasserie and Lounge.
